Dear Mrs. Edwards,

I enjoyed your letter. Our house numbers won't be hard to remember! You live in a beautiful area. My husband, Don, and I enjoyed the Napa Valley when we visited California several years ago.

I assume you got my name from my inquiry in The Family Tree from The Choctaw Advocate. I've only had one other reply last November. I am very interested in early Wayne Co, Miss. records. However, my inquiry concerned my search for records prior to 1800. I have been doing research on my husband's family for nine years — McLaughlin - McLauchlin - Maclachlan I have successfully proven our relationship & the McLauchlin in the 1830 Mississippi Census (Wayne Co., Winchester in or near the Choctaw Nation, Mississippi) as well as the 1850 Wayne Co. Census. Edward Mclauchlin and John Mclauchlin appear in the 1830 census. Edward also appears in the 1820 Wayne Co. census. Edward and Dugald [illegible] in the 1850 census.

This Edward McLauchlin appears on 1812 tax records as 1 white male with 1 slave in Wayne Co. Apparently he came ahead of his family to establish a new home. That home still stands as the oldest known house still standing in Wayne Co. It is located in the Denham Community near Buckatunna Creek. It has been 'modernized' but beneath the tin and shingles the original hand hewn logs remain. These hewn logs are pegined together with wooden pegs in the 'old world' style. I can give you a more detailed description if you need it. My family has visited this home on a number of occasions. We finally found the cemetary. It was there that we discovered 2 legible markers: Margaret McLauchlin who married John W. McRae. Margaret was the third child of Edward McLauchlin and his wife, Ellianor McDonald McLauchlin. She was the first of 9 children born in McLauchlin Village, Wayne Co, Miss. I was attempting to contact the McRae line, hoping that perhaps Edward, who was born in Scotland, had come to America with the McRaes since the two families settled so close together in the Mississippi territory. I have been unable to trace Edward McLauchlin before he came to No. Carolina and then So. Carolina where he met his wife and their 1st son, John D. was born.

The letter I refered to in the first page did give me some McRae info. Margaret's older sister, Catherine married a McRae, too. Since so many in this family were born, married and died in Wayne Co. I may have some useful information for you which I will be glad to share. I will not publish my McLaughlin Family History until I complete the link to Scotland.

I am going to the archives in both North & South Carolina next month and to Scotland in May. Hopefully I'll be able to 'put it all together' by fall.

My sources are reliable — archives records, census records, family Bibles etc. I never use any information until I have at least two reliable sources. I don't have any information about the Surnames, Nicholson, Boutwell, Halley - sorry. I haven't come across those names in my research. The McRay spelling in the names you mentioned is not the one I have (McRae) however some of the first names are the same:

Margaret (Peggy) McLauchlin
B 23 sept 1813 (probably Miss.)
D 17 oct 1894 (McLauchlin Village, Wayne Co. Miss) m John W. McRae (probably in Wayne Co. Miss)
B 1808
D 6 August 1873 (McLauchlin Village near Waynesboro, Miss.)

(4 children)

her older sister Catharine (Kate) McLauchlin
B 24 Jan 1811 (either Miss or So. Carolina
D
m Daniel McRae, Jr.
(number of children not known)

Daniel & John were brothers, sons of Daniel and Margaret McRae. Their uncle was Alexander McRae

I would enjoy some more info. about the Philadelphus church. Many McRaes are buried there - but no McLauchlins. The church was some distance from McLauchlin Village.

Let me know if you want more Wayne Co. info. My husband is the descendant of Edward's oldest son John D. (brother to Catherine & Margaret) above. He's (my husband's) great grandfather, John Edward (son of John D.) moved to Choctaw Co. Al. - across the State line.

Sincerely,
Martha McLauchlin

Mississippi legislators approve hiring redistricting experts

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A committee in charge of carving the state into four new congressional districts has agreed to spend an undisclosed amount of money to hire redistricting experts.

Rep. Tommy Reynolds, chairman of the Joint Committee on Legislative Reapportionment and Congressional Redistricting, said his committee will look for people experienced at crunching numbers and examining the Many observers have speculated that Mississippi's two newest U.S. House members, Republican Chip Pickering and Democrat Ronnie Shows, could be tossed into the same district. Reynolds and other committee leaders say no decisions have been made.

Crews contain Wa wildfire that killed

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — A wildfire has been contained two weeks after it exploded and killed four young firefighters.

"We're happy to get containment," Donna Nemeth, spokeswoman for the interagency crews fighting the blaze, said Monday.

There is no estimated date for when the fire will be extinguished, Nemeth said. But she said the 9,300-acre fire in the northern Cascade range, though not completely out, presents no danger of crossing the fire line.

Forty firefighters remained to snuff out small fires that
